C. Michael Dudash

Presenting

Painting with the costumed model

The stellar professional art career of C. Michael Dudash starts about the time the earth cooled. It has been filled with a great many significant accomplishments and awards. As an illustrator his talents have been sought out by major advertisers, publishers, the movie industry and major institutions such as The United Nations, The U.S. Postal Service. His unique approach to painting has always been that of a classic oil painter. In 2003 Michael was invited to paint with the Putney Painters, a group formed by painters Richard Schmid and Nancy Guzik in southern Vermont. In 2004 Michael was awarded Best Portrait Of Show award at the Oil Painters of America National show in Kirkland, WA. His writings, teachings and extensive lecture schedule have distinguished Michael as one of the most accomplished artists of this generation as well as one of the leading painters of heart-felt Christian art working in the world today. Michael will be teaching and demonstrating techniques for painting the costumed model.

Willardson /White Studio. As a principal player in the Airbrush movement of the early 1980s he distinguished himself by producing advertising and movie campaigns for the biggest clients in America and taking that art form to new levels. Mick made a transition from airbrush to digital and then back to his origins as an oil painter. Mick's ability to utilize all of his skills and experience from his years of painting Hollywood movie one sheets and other portrait commissions have placed him in high demand.

Mick was a finalist for the prestigious Cleo award and as an Air Force artist was honored to be one of ten artists assigned to sketch veterans at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, DC. Mick will be instructing a workshop in portrait technique.
